With F.M.L.

No, I wasn't born with horns, jaggedy teeth and barbed tail under a money tree. The middle initial is for Martin, not Mephestopheles.

Having a reputation for broad-mindedness in the Bible Belt rings up an impression it's Sodom and Gomorrah every weekend.

I have the same failing you do. I'm human. And as stigmata go, it's not so bad a stigma.

One of the admirable things about people these days is that they seem to value their humanity. One of the lesser things these days is an intense desire to humanize the best, beyond the faults the human condition requires of us all.

We want our heros, Ulyssean exposed, stream of consciousness bare, drained of any secret thought which somehow alters an image.

We all of us are better if there is some part of us beyond anyone else's knowledge, a secret place, maybe a room in the house, or a place where a child disappears for a while, to dawdle or do whatever inane thing he chooses, or just one, solitary, private thought.

Some imaginative people spend their time thinking up things about others. And if they applied that to some purpose, anything they choose, they might discover something new in themselves. Instead, they are always judging themselves, and to keep some semblance of inner peace, they judge others so the home folks don't look, or at least feel so bad.

In our society we must compete with whatever talent we develop. It's sort of the law of the jungle: "Who's better at this?" If you win, you must keep winning. If you lose, you choose sides to see who is a favorite or who is the villain.

It's not as much fun on the sidelines, and I am there quite often, watching lots of competition of all kinds. But you are less likely to get walked on at the sidelines, though you might think competition is what you really want.

If you are to compete, you come to the stoic conclusion in any public arena, that you can't really care what people think or say. The truth is they don't know. They are looking at images, at best, and they can only surmise from that.

It often comes to running an impression through an oven stoked with jealousy and producing a monster.

This is not a disclaimer because somebody says what he thinks of me. In such cases, it is of little consequence, and I often am at the advantage. And this can work for you: When someone levels on you, to you or behind your back, consider that you know what he thinks of you, but he hasn't the foggiest notion of your opinion of him. And if he didn't care, he wouldn't be "badmouthing" you anyhow.

We are imperfect for different reasons. Often, it is because we never know the real "us". And that is a problem when most people never really know the real "them".

So often, so very often, they are too busy watching the other guy. Or, at least they think they are.

NEW MATH almost ruined an otherwise good day for Rocky, 3 1/2 month old raccoon who accompanied Jason Raymond to 4th grade classes Thursday.

3 Charged In Cattle Thefts

Three young Milam County men are out on bond after being charged in Justice of the Peace court with the theft of 16 calves, according to Co. Atty. John B. Henderson

The men, Joe Ed Hendrix, Byron B. Christian, and Russell Bankston of the Milano area were arrested in Belton, according to Sheriff Carl Black.

The men were caught in Belton by Cullen Robinson, of the Southwest Texas Livestock Raisers Association.

Sheriff Carl Black said the cattle thefts had been going on in the Milano area for some time, with several cattlemen reporting thefts.

In other news, Sheriff Black said James P. Foster Jr. had been arrested in Waco and charged with the recent burglary of the Rainbow Courts in Rockdale.

New Wildcat Drilling

By Lloyd Albertson

South Milam County's Milbur Field had a new deep wildcat drilling below 5,000 feet, and had a completion crew at work on another deep wildcat, drilled last month, preparing to run tests on it last weekend.

Also late last week potential test figures were filed on two recently completed shallow wells in the booming oilfield.

Milbur's new deep wildcat is the Holloway Dynamics and J. A. Leonard No. 1 H. H. Coffield. At last report on Friday it was drilling around 5,200 feet. The wildcat was having little information released about it, but was believed to have the Edwards Lime, at around 6,000 feet depth, as its objective.

The No. 1 H. H. Coffield is located on acreage near the 127 acre Blackburn tract in Smith Vincent Survey on which the No. 1 Blackburn-Trammel deep wildcat was drilled last month.

That wildcat, which also was drilled by W. P. Holloway and J. A. Leonard of Austin, was reported bottomed at 5,968 feet and a completion drilling crew was preparing to test it in the Edwards Lime.

The Blackburn - Trammel was logged in mid - September and the drilling crew set pipe to 5,960 feet. Oil patch rumor at that time was that the wildcat probably was a discovery in the Edwards Lime.

If so, it will be the first time that elusive formation has been tapped successfully in Milam County, although there have been several near misses.

Potential test figures were filed last week by Brown & McKenzie, Inc. of Houston on two of their recently completed wells in the Milbur Field.

The operators' No. 1 D. A. Scott made 58 barrels of 35 gravity oil per day on potential test through perforations at 3,723 - 729 feet. Their No. 1 P. H. Perry produced 53 barrels of oil per day, no water, through perforations at 3,649 - 655 feet. Both wells produced from the Navarro "B" zone in the field.

Council Views Streets

The City Council meeting in regular session Tuesday took action to provide a walkway for junior high school children, and authorized an ordinance which would make streets near the high school one way streets.

The council also accepted a petition from residents to pave part of Harding Street.

Don Wiggins, principal at the junior high school, appeared before the council along with three representatives from the Texas Highway Department.

Discussion of school crosswalks across the highway centered on painting stripes for the crosswalks and the city agreed to gravel a walkway for the children across the highway from the school. There is no sidewalk at the present time.

Debbie Evans and Patricia Burnett, Yoe High School representatives, asked the city to consider making the block of North Lamar at the school one way, and also the two blocks of E. 13th Street near the football field. Council agreed to pass an ordinance to that effect.

Jack Woods presented a petition from residents on North Harding for paving of that street from 12th to 18th. After discussion, council accepted the petition but stated that no paving could begin until spring of 1972.

Gene Smitherman, representing the Noon Lions Club, asked why the city had not deposited money to a special account for improving Ledbetter Park, the club's project. Mayor E. A. Perrin said the agreement had been that the city would contribute up to $3000 when plans are complete and approved by the council.

Criminal Justice Plan Goes To Governor

AUSTIN

An updated five-year plan for improving criminal justice in the seven-county area served by Central Texas Council of Governments, Belton, has been received by Governor Preston Smith's Criminal Justice Council.

The plan, covering 1972 to 1976, was submitted by George Leonhard, COG president. The Central Texas plan and similar documents from the state's other 23 planning regions will provide input for an updated statewide criminal justice plan to be issued later this year.

Included in the prospectus is a survey of the resources and needs of the entire region, which is made up of the counties of Bell, Coryell, Hamilton, Lampasas, Milam, Mills and San Saba.

For 1972 the plan projects a need for $2,605,000 in CJC funding. Largest amount ($350,000) will be needed for improving law enforcement radio communications and developing a regional law enforcement radio communications system. The plan assigns high priority to this project.

The same amount, $350,000, also is needed in 1972 for planning and constructing a regional detention facility to serve the seven-county area. Medium priority is assigned to this project.

Centex COG also anticipates a need for $300,000 during the coming year to provide equipment necessary for law enforcement agencies to have effective internal operations.

Needs for the five-year period covered by the plan are estimated at $6,952,000.

TEAM WORK at the Louis Raska home and workshop produces bird houses to compliment home designs such as the foretress style Blue Martin house and Japanese style wren house held by Mrs. Raska.

Hobby Produces Homes For Birds

When Louis Raska retired as local Sinclair agent in 1957 his wife suggested he pursue his wood craft hobby. The 'hobby' soon became a full-time occupation with husband and wife team effort producing some of the most intricate and artistic homes for birds, cats, dogs and dolls to be found.

Raska designs and builds the miniature homes and his wife adds the finishing touches with paint and brush. The structures, mostly built to special order, have added outdoor charm to residences throughout Central Texas and as far away as Michigan and Virginia.

The Raska home and workshop on the old Temple Hiway is a fantasy land for children with handcrafted horse and cowboy bookends, miniature covered wagon, stagecoach and water wells, cat, dog and bird houses and bird feeders in all stages of completion.

Not content to build the ordinary bird house, the Raskas combine their artistry with a thorough study of the future occupants. Among their favorites are the Blue Martins that live in colony fashion in multi-story apartment houses. Raska said most of his Martin houses have from 8 to 16 apartments, all carefully assembled so that they can easily be taken apart and cleaned when the birds leave for the winter.

"Martins like a little porch," Raska said, so his houses are designed with porches and some with tiny railings to protect baby birds who might want to wander.

Raska said the Martin, which will eat up to 2,000 mosquitoes a day, is particular about his home. "They send a scout to find a home and he guides the colony to his selection."

Although other bird houses come in a rainbow of colors, Raska said they had learned that the Blue Martin favored a white house with green roof. He uses both glue and nails on his bird houses to make them completely water proof.

But bird houses are just part of his work. The more intricate the project, the more interesting the challenge for Raska. For example:

A doll house, built for his granddaughters Dana and Lorrie McDermott, is complete with miniature furnishings hand made of wood and carefully glued to withstand years of childrens play;

A miniature stage coach with all authentic, moveable, working parts, including brake operated from the drivers seat;

Frames and easels for miniature oil paintings;

A coffee table made of Japanese mahogany with creative inlaid design.

Raska said he can duplicate almost any design from a picture, but his real pleasure is to create something new. He is currently considering patenting a Bingo card holder of his own invention.

The work is sometimes tedious and demanding, and then Raska stops for a domino game with friends. But it has added a new dimension to life for the Raskas and as Louis Raska commented, "I don't have time to get old."

New Rosebud-Lott Center...

If we want some idea of what is new in school construction, we of Cameron School District might visit the new Rosebud - Lott Learning Center.

It appears to be a prestressed concrete construction, air conditioned and otherwise modern in comparison to any buildings in the Cameron system, the newest about 15 years old.

We suggest Cameronites visit the new Rosebud-Lott school, about halfway between the two communities on US 77.

It is one example of the latest design on the outside. And chances are the interior is up to the minute on uses of space and learning developments in the ever-changing education field.

More Surface Water...

Army Corps of Engineers is raising the level of Belton Reservoir by 25 feet which will almost double the acre feet surface of the lake.

This will mean more riding surface for people using the lake as well as tremendous gain in additional water for Brazos River Authority's sale to downstream users.

As Laneport appropriations near approval by the White House, it is abundantly clear that surface water is a major asset in the Milam area. And we are storing it for more use with this increase at Belton and construction at Laneport.

No other part of the state, except perhaps East Texas, has greater water resources than we do in this area, now that reservoir storage is so complete a fact.

It is this kind of foresight that gives the Central Texas area abundant hope for the future.

President Nixon Marks National Newspaper Week

President Richard Nixon issued a special statement marking National Newspaper Week, October 10-16:

"Communication is the life blood of a community. And it is most appropriate that America set aside a special week to honor the Nation's newspapers and the men and women who produce them.

"The printed word is a powerful instrument of progress. As we celebrate National Newspaper Week we take stock of the benefits a strong newspaper tradition brings to the Nation, to its individual communities, and to each one of us as a citizen -- and also of the continuing importance of journalistic integrity.

"We reaffirm our belief in the fundamental freedom of the press as well as in the awesome responsibility it carries.

"A potent force in the history of our nation since the very beginning, newspapers continue to grow with our society. The challenges they face and the demands that are placed upon them have increased along with the complexities of modern living.

"As we look ahead to America's third century we salute our newspapers in the hope that they will continue to write proud new chapters in the great and unique tradition of American press freedom."

Deadline Pressing State Legislative Redistricting

By Bill Boykin

The State Legislative Redistricting Board, ordered by the Supreme Court to reapportion the House of Representatives as well as the Senate, is in the process of writing its bill under deadline pressure.

Finding of the Court that the Board should take over the unfinished legislative reapportionment task was doubly significant.

Aside from setting a precedent as to responsibility of drawing new district lines, the decision eliminated the necessity of an early special legislative session. This pleased both House Speaker Gus Mutscher and Gov. Preston Smith.

Mutscher, under bribery indictment, escaped an early showdown with legislators who want to force him to step down as speaker and replace him with another.

Although speculation was widespread he would hand his duties to a speaker pro tempore, he announced four days after the Court's decision he had decided to stay on the job, confident he will be found innocent of charges.

Governor Smith applauded the Court's decision. He said he wants to wait "as long as possible" to call a special session on budget matters so the Legislature will have full advantage of data on available revenue which might curb the tax bill.

Indications are there will be no special session now until June, 1972, after the primary elections.

The five-member Redistricting Board held a hearing September 30 and heard only testimony of big-city residents debating the merits of single-member vs. multi - member (or county-wide) House districts.

Apparently, the Board is divided two-and-two, with Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin undecided on the metropolitan district issue. Whichever may it rules, another lawsuit challenging the decision seems likely. The Board has only until October 23 to complete its work.

GOVERNOR'S RACE

There is official competition in the governor's race with the entry of Uvalde rancher and banker Dolph Briscoe. Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes announced last June he would run.

Briscoe made clear the stock-loan scandals (which resulted in three state-house indictments September 23) will be a major issue in his campaign.

He focused attention on quick passage by the Senate of the same bank deposit insurance bills which figured in the indictments of Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and S. Rush McGinty of Austin. And, he maintained, Barnes "helped push them (the bills) through the Senate."

Barnes declined to reply. He said there will be "plenty of time to set the facts straight" within the next seven months before the election.

Briscoe also emphasized need for innovations in mass transportation and further environmental protections.

ETHICS COMMISSION

A new Ethics Commission to police behavior of public officials is now complete, though top state judges have expressed doubt as to its effectiveness.

Three members elected by the Senate are Sens. A. M. Aikin of Paris, Charles Herring of Austin and Ocar Mauzy of Dallas.

House members elected Reps. John F. Boyle Jr. of Irving, Clyde Haynes Jr. of Vidor and James E. Nugent of Kerrville.

Court of Criminal Appeals Presiding Judge John F. Onion Jr. appointed Rabbi David Jacobson of San Antonio and University of Texas Law Professor John Sutton Jr. of Austin.

Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert earlier designated Baylor University Law Professor Mrs. Margaret Harris Amsler and Houston Attorney Alf Roark.

First Court of Civil Appeals Chief Justice Spurgeon Bell picked Dallas Attorney J. W. Hassell Jr. and retired Houston newspaperman William H. Gardner, now of Austin, for the Judicial Qualifications Commission.

AG OPINIONS

Texas Air Control Board must keep "confidential information" label on data it collects in investigation of air pollution matters where parties insist, Attorney General Martin has held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

* In proceedings in eminent domain in Cass County, petitions should be filed with the Fifth district judge, and he will appoint special commissioners, receive awards and enter judgments.

* Deer hunting with dogs is lawful in San Augustine County during open season provided in a 1971 game bill.

* Laws requiring additional water safety equipment on boats and specifying that children 12 or under aboard motorboats must wear life preservers should be enforced.

* Texas Optometry Board may use written exams made available by international associations if they meet state requirements.

* State Comptroller can require proof of authorization for Parks-Wildlife Department employees to sign vouchers in reference to deposit, expenditure and investment of department funds in the state treasury.

* Fifty dollar license fee for mobile home manufacturers is no longer required to be paid to Bureau of Labor Statistics.

ROAD EMERGENCY

Governor declared a state of emergency in 21 South Texas counties with respect to highway conditions resulting from Hurricanes Fern and Edith winds and rain.

Smith said immediate reconstruction is vital in Aransas, Bee, Brooks, Cameron, Chambers, Duval, Goliad, Hidalgo, Jim Hogg, Jim Wells, Jefferson, Karnes, Kleberg, Live Oak, Matagorda, Nueces, Refugio, San Patricio, Starr, Webb and Willacy counties.

QUAIL SEASON EXTENDED

Enlarged Parks and Wildlife Commission voted to extend the closing date of quail season statewide to February 15. Action provided two additional weeks for most counties, but in some areas the season is still two weeks shorter than last year.

At the same meeting, the Commission voted unanimously to reopen the Canadian River bed to free public hunting under an attorney general's ruling of September 16.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

There's no way around it, the people in Europe are a bunch of sissies.

According to an article I read last night in a newspaper that turned up in my mail box by mistake -- the new postal service hasn't, as some feared, abandoned all the fine traditions of the old one -- all the countries in Europe are biting their finger nails and losing sleep over the value of the American dollar. It's going down.

As a result, everybody is selling dollars, refusing to take dollars from tourists, and generally demanding that something be done before all Europe panics.

Clearly, they are a bunch of sissies. Why, the value of the dollar has been going down for years in the United States and I haven't found anybody yet who has refused to take one. Everybody I know would like to have a lot more of them.

In fact, it takes a lot more of them to pay two dollars for a dollars worth of groceries.

Of course, the monetary system is one of the things I and possibly some others, say three-fourths of Congress and all economists, have never been able to understand, and it may be that the value of the dollar hasn't gone down, just the price of things has gone up.

Whichever way it is and regardless of whether the dollar is worth 100 cents or 48 cents, I have never seen a man yet who, makes no difference what shape his back was in, wouldn't, if he saw one lying on the street, bend over and pick it up. I know a banker who dislocated a hip bending over to pick up a quarter.

Europeans ought to calm down and latch on to all the dollars they can.

As the saying goes, a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, but you'd better not let the Environmentalists hear you say this.

Personally, I've got confidence in the dollar. It's still worth 100 cents. Unfortunately though a cent is just worth half a penny. That's where the trouble is.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

GAO: WATCHDOG OF TAXPAYER'S MONEY

SENATOR ABRAHAM RIBICOFF (Conn.) ". . . This year marks the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE (GAO). In recognition of this event, the Sunday magazine of the Washington Star, recently published an excellent article by Miriam Ottenberg describing some of the current activities of the GAO. . . "The article was ordered to be printed in the RECORD." (Excerpts follow:)

A GAO team once was looking into the newly computerized payroll procedures of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for 106,000 employees from coast to coast. In the course of the investigation, a GAO auditor noticed an unlocked file drawer. When he opened it, his eyes popped. The drawer was full of money. There was over $500 in cash, but most of the money was in check form -- checks where the payee couldn't be found, personal checks from workers trying to return overpayments, 1,661 checks in all totalling $308,000. He didn't stop to count it all then. Instead, he ran back to tell his boss. In the few minutes he was away, the file drawer was moved out of the room. HEW finally returned it at GAO's insistance, but the 1968 report on the caper was pretty rough.

Rarely does GAO find attempts to cover up a situation. That's not very easy to do in any case since the agency doesn't know exactly what GAO is looking for when the team arrives.

Investigating nursing home care isn't the sort of thing GAO would have done a decade ago; but Congress is interested now in how Medicare and Medicaid money is spent. The GAO turns up case after case where nursing homes continued to get Medicaid money for patients who were dead.

GAO's missions take its people over the world. They can be found ducking bombs in Viet Nam, diving in a submarine in the South Atlantic, checking on foreign - aid spending in Nigeria, auditing an Air Force contract at Thule, Greenland, observing the Navy's combat readiness from the flight deck of an aircraft carrier in the Mediterranean.

GAO gets into the act because somewhere along the line goverment money is being spent. It is the GAO's job to see the money is spent legally, efficiently and as Congress intended.

The Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 directed the GAO to analyze expenditures of every executive agency annually and report on "whether public funds have been economically and efficiently administrated and expended." Now Sen. Ribicoff wants to give the GAO even more authority.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

When a congressman exposes the overrun on a government contract, the GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE provided the information.-J.C.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Mrs. Olson was home alone when two husky men came to her door.

"We're from the appliance store," they announced, "and we are going to repossess your stove."

Despite her protests, they barged into the house, seized the stove, and carried it away—leaving soot stains all over the rug.

Understandably upset, Mrs. Olson determined to sue the store for damages. In court, the proprietor told the judge:

"Maybe my boys did get a little careless. I am willing to pay for cleaning her rug. But aside from that, she suffered no harm. After all, she was behind in her payments."

However, the judge held him liable not only for the rug but also for "punitive damages"—that is, extra damages imposed to teach him a lesson.

The law is taking an increasingly stern view of "rough stuff" by creditors in the repossession of merchandise. To discourage such tactics, most courts will award punitive damages to the debtor, over and above any actual harm done.

In another case, a furniture dealer told a widow she could have extra time to pay for her purchases because she had to have an operation. But while she was in the hospital, he broke into her house and decamped with the furniture. Here, too, a court found ample grounds for awarding punitive damages.

Nevertheless, the law does not frown on the basic idea of repossession. By giving the creditor a simple and speedy remedy against the delinquent debtor, it can keep down the cost of credit for other consumers.

Repeatedly, courts have found nothing improper when a repossessor towed away a car parked in front of a debtor's house or even in his driveway. As one court pointed out, the seller is merely taking back — "without force, threats, or even stealth"—what is rightfully his.

Loose Hay Use Is Up

COLLEGE STATION

Forage producers throughout Texas are becoming more interested in stacking loose hay, according to Dr. Neal Pratt, agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Loose stacked hay offers several advantages to forage and livestock producers. And there are also several disadvantages.

Hay can usually be stacked loose with less labor requirements and can retain its quality as well as baled hay. However, loose hay is less marketable and has certain feeding limitations over baled hay, says Pratt.

Also, the inexperience of forage producers in forming stacks may create considerable loss of loose hay the first year. After experience is gained, the loss in loose hay and baled hay is comparable.

Regardless of the method used in harvesting hay, be sure to produce high-quality hay, advises the agronomist. This means adequate amounts of fertilization are necessary. Hay should be harvested before it matures so that it will retain maximum quality.

Equipment manufacturers have developed reliable machinery for stacking hay loose. Forage and livestock producers should evaluate their forage program and consider loose stacking if their annual hay production approaches 300 tons or more, notes Pratt.

County agricultural agents have detailed information on loose hay stacking.

Swine Shortcourse Set

The Swine Subcommittee of the Co. Program Building Committee has scheduled a Swine Shortcourse for Milam County producers Monday, October 11 and Tuesday, October 12.

The October 11 meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Vo-Ag building in Thorndale with Dr. W. B. Thomas in charge of the program. On October 12 the meeting will be held in Cameron at the Vocational Agri. Building with James Denton presenting the program. The time for this meeting will also be 7:30 p.m.

At the Thorndale meeting on the 11th, Thomas will speak on Pasture, Semi - Confinement or Confinement, including advantages, disadvantages and cost estimates. He will also include information on cooling and insulation materials, and pollution control measures.

Thomas is Swine Specialist for the Extension Service holding a BS in Animal Husbandry, M.S. in Animal Science, and a PH.D. in Nutrition from Texas A&M.

Denton will cover economic potentials in swine, swine outlook, hedging, and marketing potentials at the meeting in Cameron on the 12th.

Denton is Area Economist with the Extension Service from Stephenville. He holds a B.S. in Agricultural Economics from Texas Tech and M.S. in Agricultural Economics from Texas A&M.

Even with declining prices over the past year, swine members in Milam County climbed to almost 18,000 head in 1971 an increase of over 4,000 head from 1970 figures. The total sales of hogs and pigs in the county accounts for over one million dollars a year.

There are problems in the swine industry, right now marketing problems are high on the list, but in the long run there are also opportunities in the swine industry.

These swine meetings are set up for benefit of the general public and all persons interested in the swine industry are welcome and encouraged to attend.

The Wage-Price Freeze

Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on the Wage and Price Freeze is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about the Wage and Price Freeze announced August 15 by President Nixon.

Q - During the first week of August, my union reached agreement with my employer on a new contract giving me a wage increase. However, the agreement has yet to go into effect. Can I still get the additional wages?

A - The new rate can be paid if labor and management had reached an agreement and work was performed or wages accrued prior to August 15 at the new wage rate.

Q - Does the Internal Revenue Service have any publications giving information on the freeze?

A - Yes. Copies of "The Wage-Price Freeze: Some questions and Answers" can be obtained without charge by contacting your local IRS office. The booklet is also available at many post offices throughout the country and from the 10 Emergency Preparedness Regional Offices.

Q - My apartment lease specifically provides for me to pay for any increases in property taxes. Can my landlord now raise rent on the basis of a property tax increase?

A - No. This is not permitted during the freeze.

Q - My employer hired me on a probationary basis. The established practice of the company is to increase wage rates at the end of the probationary period. My probationary period ends in two weeks. Can I still receive a wage increase?

A - Yes. The probationary period is similar to an apprenticeship or learners' program and the wage increase may be granted if the probationary period for the job does not exceed three months.

Q - Can a landlord evict a tenant for refusing to pay a rent increase during the freeze?

A - No. A landlord is in violation of the freeze if he attempts to evict a tenant for refusal to pay rent in excess of the ceiling rent applicable to his rental apartment or house.

A tenant threatened with eviction over an increase in rent during the freeze should immediately consult the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS has 360 offices throughout the country to investigate complaints and provide information about the freeze.

Q - Does the price freeze mean an end of special sales or reductions in prices?

A - Yes.

Q - Can insurance rates be increased during the freeze?

A - No. The freeze applies to insurance rates. However, if a rate increase was announced before August 15 and a substantial number of transactions occurred at the increased rate, the increase becomes the established rate. No additional rate increases are permitted during the freeze.

County Agent's Notes

Variety Act Protects Grower

By Bill McCutchen

In December of 1970 the Plant Variety Protection Act became law, making it possible for plant breeders, companies or institutions to obtain a certificate of Plant Variety Protection for varieties that are novel and were developed after the above date.

The owner of a plant variety protection certificate has the right to control the production and sale of seed covered by the certificate. He may exclude others from selling seed of the protected variety or he may charge a royalty for all seed of the variety that is sold. Legally, the Plant Variety Protection Certificate is the same as a patent.

One provision of the Plant Variety Protection Act specifies that a variety may be sold by variety name only as a class of certified seed. All seed sold by the variety name must be either registered or certified seed.

There is a very important exception to the restrictions of protected varieties. Any farmer may save seed of protected varieties and plant it on his farm or sell it to other farmers provided there is no advertising by the variety name and the sale complies with the State and Federal Seed Laws.

COTTON

With the late rains and late growth on cotton, many Milam County producers used 2, 4-D prior to desiccation with "arsenic acid".

I would remind cotton farmers not to save seed cotton from 2, 4-D sprayed cotton. 2, 4-D is readily translocated into seed of developing bolls and when this seed is planted typical 2,4-D damage results in seedling cotton.

BLACKLEG

There have been numerous "blackleg" outbreaks in Milam County over the past few weeks. This is due to, in most instances, failure to vaccinate.

Dr. McDermott and Dr. Titsworth have both reported numerous blackleg cases. Dr. Titsworth says he has examined ten dead calves in the past two weeks, and attributed the deaths to blackleg.

Blackleg is an acute, infectious disease that affects mainly young cattle and sometimes sheep. Most susceptible to blackleg are cattle 6 to 18 months old. Blackleg spores survive in the soil of a pasture and retain their ability to germinate and produce the disease for many years.

The disease is marked by high fever and the formation of gaseous swellings under the skin, especially on the hind quarter or shoulder, and also on the neck, chest, flank, rump, or other parts of the body. The swellings usually casue stiffness or lameness and sometimes complete paralysis of the affected part.

The swellings at first are small, hot, and painfull. They grow in size and later become cold and painless. Other general symptoms, such as loss of appetite, suspension of ruminations, rapid breathing and great depression develops as the disease progresses. The temperature falls, and violent convulsions may occur just before death. Some animals recover, but most affected animals die in 12 to 36 hours after the first symptoms appear.

The onset of the disease is do sudden that in new outbreaks the first animals to be affected usually are found dead in the pasture without showing obvious symptoms.

Vaccination is the only effective and reliable means known for protecting animals against blackleg.

WEBWORMS

Fall webworms are very abundant in pecan trees all over Milam County at the present. Leaves are eaten by larvae living in loosely woven, dirty white webs. Damage to the trees at this time of the year is negligable but sometimes very unsightly.

Light infestations on a few trees can be eliminated by pruning out affected branches and burning them. If this control method is not practical, there are easy to control by spraying. Contact the County Extension Office for spray recommendations.

Peanut Producers To Have Field Day

STEPHENVILLE

In the morning of Oct. 14, area peanut producers will see the results of using 25 different chemicals for controlling leafspot, soilborne diseases and nematodes under field conditions on the Jimmy Grissom Farm.

In the afternoon of the same day, the producers will be guests at the annual field day of the Texas A&M University - Tarleton Experiment Station here.

Hosts at the Grissom farm will be Dr. C. Wendell Horne, plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Erath County Agricultural Agent Richard B. Gary.

The Station field day will be hosted by Supt. Shelby Newman, Dr. C. E. Simpson and Dr. Jesse L. Tackett, who have arranged for the producers to see the latest results of research centered on controlling peanut diseases and insects, irrigation, harvesting and drying for quality and more net profit, breeding for better varieties, and the use of herbicides.

Phillippines To Rebuild Centuries-Old Walled City

By Honorato Cabie
Reuter Correspondent

MANILA

The Philippines plans to rebuild a centuries - old walled city and other Spanish contributions to its heritage as part of an ambitious program to attract tourists.

Money for the project -- estimated to cost more than $1 million is to be drawn from a loan of $10 million provided by Spain for the development of tourism and other industries, according to Antonio Delgado, the Philippines special ambassador for tourism.

Delgado said the aim of the project was "to provide foreign and local visitors with symbolic links with our cultural and historic heritage."

This would be done through "restoration of major historical landmarks and the presentation of representative motifs depicting life in the past, particularly during the Spanish era."

Among the relics to be revived is the walled city of Intramuros within the modern capital of Manila. Intramuros, begun in the 16th century, was a citadel of Spanish power for more than three centuries.

Also to be rebuilt are the "Ayuntamiento" palace of the Spanish governors - general who once ruled here and a Spanish town, Pueblo Expanol, which will contain 17th and 18th century houses and commercial buildings.

Spain's reign here started officially in 1565 after the Portuguese navigator - explorer Ferdinand Magellan discovered the Philippines in 1521.

The Spaniards governed the country until the United States established its rule at the beginning of this century after the Spanish - American war. The Philippines became independent in 1946.

Huge blocks of stone were quarried and brought down the Pasig River in 1571 to build the walled city of Intramuros on the site of a palisaded Moslem fort. Building continued for nearly three centuries.

The city had cobbled streets, plazas, romanesque churches, tile-roofed houses with patios, and government buildings.

It also included Fort Santiago, used as a Spanish garrison and later headquarters of American forces here.

The fort was also a dreaded prison during the Spanish era and the Japanese World War II occupation.

President Ferdinand Marcos, then a lieutenant, was among those imprisoned in its grim dungeon during the war against the Japanese.

In the 1945 battle of Manila between American and Japanese forces, most of the city's 12 churches were practically levelled.

The two-story Ayuntamiento palace of the Spanish governors has been destroyed and rebuilt several times. It was reduced to ruins again in World War II.

The rebuilt palace will contain Spanish furniture and decoration, as well as life-size models depicting historical scenes.

Its second floor will house a vast collection of historical items, including artifacts and manuscripts.

The town of Pueblo Espanol will occupy more than 88,000 square feet, rising against a background of the Manila cathedral and the San Augustin church, built in 1517 and the oldest church here.

Delgado, who visited Spain for talks last July, said a team of Spanish tourism experts was scheduled to come here to help with the project.

County Agent Says...

Time To Consider The Apple

By Christine Laws
County Home Demonstration Agent

Consider the apple. Many of our most fascinating stories, fables, and legends are woven around apples. From Biblical times onward no single fruit has played a more important role in man's life, history and health than the apple.

To the Persians, an apple symbolized immortality. Then King Solomon, in his wisdom, hailed the apple as a fruit of healing. Ages later, in Devonshire, this saying arose:

"Ate an apfel avore
gwain to bed.
Makes the doctor beg
his bread."

And today we claim that an "apple a day keeps the doctor away." Greek and Roman myths abound in stories about the apple, symbol of love and beauty. Even today we refer to something (or someone) we prize as "the apple of our eve."

The Scandinavian gods, so the story goes, had a miraculous apple tree, the fruit of which kept them young. They once lost this treasure temporarily, when it was stolen by the evil spirit, Loki, and they immediately became old and feeble. Everything in the world went wrong until the tree was restored to them and their youth regained.

British folklore, too, is filled with praise of apples. An ancient Saxon coronation benediction reads, "Bless, oh Lord, the courage of this Prince and prosper the works of his hands and may this land be filled with apples."

To pay tribute to the apple, Captain James Handly of Quincy, Illinois, sparked the beginning of National Apple Week back in 1905, with "Apple Day."

The idea spread and the October celebration is heartily supported and endorsed each year by apple producers and tradesmen from coast to coast.

Plentiful supplies of apples coming to markets, now. Celebrate National Apple Week by serving your family a delicious combination treat of apples and pork -- also in plentiful supply.

APPLE STUFFED SHOULDER OF PORK

1 medium onion, chopped fine
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 tsp. salt
Few grains pepper.
1/8 tsp. thyme
2 1/2 cups softened bread crumbs
1 3/4 cups chopped apple
1/2 cup boiling water
5 pounds boned pork shoulder with pocket

Cook onion in butter or margarine until golden brown. Add salt, pepper, thyme, bread crumbs, apples, and water: mix thoroughly. Fill shoulder pocket with stuffing mixture; fasten edges with skewers. Rub outside of meat with salt and pepper. Place on rack in open roaster. Bake at 350 degrees F. for about 3 hours, or until tender.

You can almost smell how good it is? Or how about a crisp, tender, juicy suckling pig baked to perfection with a tart, shiny red apply in its mouth! Tempting? You bet! Pork and apples just naturally go together. Try these

Apple-Smothered Pork Chops.

6 loin pork chops
1 inch thick
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. sage
3 tart apples
3 tablespoons molasses
3 tbsp. flour
2 cups hot water
1 tbsp. vinegar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/3 cup raisins

Sprinkle chops with 1/4 teaspoon salt and sage. Brown slowly in hot skillet. Place in large baking dish.

Pare, core and slice apples in 1/4 inch slices or rings; arrange on chops. Pour molasses over apples. Add flour to fat in skillet; cook until brown, stirring constantly. Add water; stir until misture boils. Add vinegar, salt and raisins. Pour over chops and apples. Cover and bake at 350 degrees F. about 1 hour, or until apples are tender.

Makes 6 servings.

Plan Home Landscape

COLLEGE STATION

Late summer and fall is a good time to look at your home landscape with a critical eye and decide whether to add or replace some of the plants around the home.

That suggestion comes from Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist with the Texas A&M Extension Service.

Maybe a rose bush has died or failed to live up to your expectations. Or perhaps a plant has died in the shrub border; leaving a gap. How about adequate shade around the patio or elsewhere to make the outdoor living area more enjoyable?

"All landscaping needs should be noted so that selections can be made early while good stock is available in the nursery or garden center," says Janne. "It's natural to put off renovating the garden until late spring after everything is green and spring flowers are in bloom. However, by then the stock is so picked over that you frequently give up and do nothing or purchase something you really didn't want or isn't suited for your area."

Balled and burlapped plants and container-grown plants can be transplanted anytime of the year. Many of the decidious plants, those that lose their leaves each fall, can be more easily handled or transplanted in a bare root condition during their dormant period.

"For best results, bare root plants should be set out in late fall and winter from mid-November through February in most areas of Texas," recommends the horticulturist. "In the Texas Panhandle, this can be extended until late March. Planting during this period will provide ample time for good root development before warm spring weather forces out new top growth."

Janne notes, however, that with proper care, bare root plants can be set out as late as March and April. Success with late spring plantings depends on the condition of the nurserystock and the care provided during the first six months after planting. "Most people won't give plants the attention required when they are planted late. Thus the plant is lost."

For ease of maintenance and a reduction in disease and insect damage, choose landscape plants that are native or adapted to the area, adds Janne.

Party Fetes B. Hubnik

Barbara Hubnik celebrated her eight birthday at a party Sunday, Oct. 3. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a lace cloth and centered with a pink birthday cake baked by Mrs. Thomas Kostroun.

Games were played outdoors by the attending guests: Missie Mathews, Jeffry Gelner, Karen Glaser, James Mondrick, Gregory Gelner, Jerri Lynn Gallimore, Kenneth Kostroun, Angela Matous, Randy Vansa, Jackie Gelner, Richard Kostroun, Sherry Mathews, Tammy Hubnik, Danny Matous, Jeff Mondrick, Jeanne Matous, Terry Joe Gelner, Toni Jo Hubnik, and Richard Glaser.

Bell Has New Methods To Stop Fraudulent Calls

Southwestern Bell is out to stop people from using fraudulent telephone credit card numbers and fake phone numbers to make long distance calls without paying for them.

"We're making it more difficult for fraudulent long distance calls to be completed," said Dennis Richter, manager for Southwestern Bell here. "If a fraudulent call is completed, using a fake credit card number or phone number, we have new ways to detect, investigate and prosecute the person responsible."

Highlights of the new plan include:

--Changing of the credit card numbering system

--Training of long distance operators to detect fraudulent calls when they are placed

--Use of computers to spot fake credit card numbers and phone numbers when long distance calls are billed.

Most fraudulent calling involves illegal charging of calls to Bell System credit card numbers.

"But under our new system," Richter said, "If a person in Cameron makes a call using a non-existent credit card and the operator doesn't catch it, we can still spot it through daily processing of toll message tickets. This means quick identification -- maybe in 24 to 48 hours. It's virtually impossible to escape detection after that. We can identify who made the call with just one call."

Use of an unauthorized or fictitious telephone credit card could violate both state and federal law. Maximum penalties range from a $1,000 fine and 10 years in prison if convicted of a felony under Texas law to a $10,000 fine and five years in prison for felony conviction under federal law.

"There are good reasons for the stiff penalties," Richter said. "The Bell System may lose $34 million to toll fraud this year. In the five states Southwestern Bell serves, toll fraud losses may top $3 million."

When a person makes a fraudulent call, "we'll be right there to stop him next time -- either face to face or in a court of law," Richter said.

It's after hours. Yet most of the windows are bright. Perhaps the cleaning crew is at work, or a few executives catching up on their mail.

Whatever the reason, the lighted windows glow with purpose. The dark windows are blank, austere and forbidding. What difference one flick of a light switch can make!

People are like the windows of this building. Some, radiant with the joy of living, find days full, happy and useful. They are fun to be around. Others, gloomy and sad, find life lonely and meaningless. Their company is tedious.

What makes the difference? Where can you turn if life seems troublesome? You can't flick a switch to change an attitude.

The secret is in your church. Worship and study there, and welcome the living presence of God into your heart and mind. Your whole life will be lighted and your days filled with new happiness.

Boy Scouts Set Special Recruit Program Tuesday

On Tuesday, October 12 from 7 until 9 p.m. Ada Henderson School in Cameron will be open for a special recruiting program to give prospective Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts and their parents an opportunity to learn about scouting and join a pack or troop.

Ron Derry, Tejas District scout executive, said representatives from several of the packs and troops will be at the meeting to tell about their units.

Participating packs and troops will put on demonstrations of activities they are normally involved in as Scout units, district representatives will tell the story of scouting to those attending, and each boy will have an opportunity to join a unit.

Registration fee for all new scouts is $1 annually and scouts may subscribe to "Boys Life" magazine for $2, which is half the regular subscription rate.

All boys who are currently Boy Scouts or Cub Scouts are being encouraged to wear their uniforms to school October 12 to further publicize this "School night for Scouting."

Circulars will be sent home through the schools Monday, October 11, to remind parents of the opportunity to get their sons involved in scouting.

Photos Aid Property Recovery

AUSTIN

A couple of rolls of film for the family camera and a couple of hours of your time can save you dollars and heartache in the event of a fire, natural disaster or burglary in your home or apartment the Texas Insurance Advisory Association (TIAA) advises.

"The safest way to guard your possessions and secure their replacement or assist in their return in event of a burglary is to make an inventory of all possessions including the serial numbers of all major appliances, television, sets, guns etc." Tom Lee, general manager of TIAA said. "A secondary help is to take snapshots of each room in your home from every angle to show all possessions including the possessions. These snapshots can be used as proof of loss in filing claims with insurance companies in the event of the loss or theft of your household goods."

The snapshots and inventory should then be kept in a safe place away from your home, such as a safe deposit box, so that in the event of a disaster, they are not lost or destroyed with the rest of your possessions.

Burglary has become a big business in Texas over the past few years-- rake in a profit of approximately $133,000 per week. This figure represents residential burglaries only and does not include the burglary of businesses -- and this is just in Texas.

Leaving a note on the door telling when you'll return or where the key is hidden is all the invitation a burglar needs, and once he picks his "customer" and successfully completes his "business" there is little chance of recovery of the property. The inventory and snapshots can be of invaluable assistance in these instances.

About 14 percent of U.S. farmer's income comes from sales in foreign markets and 49 percent of U.S. agricultural sales are to the six EEC countries, Japan, and Canada.

Sen. Watson Named To Committee

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes announced today in Austin the appointment of Sen. Murray Watson of Mart and Sen. H. J. "Doc" Blanchard of Lubbock to the interim Committee to Study the Prevention of Life Insurance Company Insolvencies and the Protection of Policy Holders. This Committee was created by SCR 103.

The Committee will investigate the financial structure of life insurance companies authorized to do business in this state in an effort to formulate legislation.

Council Plans 4-H Banquet

Final plans for the 4-H Awards banquet were made at the Milam County 4-H Council meeting Saturday. The banquet will be held October 9 at the New Salem Club House at Rockdale.

Other business included viewing the new 4-H signs and banners to be used during National 4-H Week. Also, a report was heard on the farewell party for J. D. Moore and Mrs. Sue McDaniels.

Clarkson Homecoming

The Clarkson Cemetery Association will have its annual homecoming and dinner at the Schoolhouse on Sunday, October 10.

BEC Joins Nation In Co-op Month

Belfalls Electric Cooperative, Inc., along with cooperative organizations of all types across the nation, plans to observe October as national Co-op Month. Theme is "Cooperatives Care."

Manager A. L. Freeman said today this theme was chosen because "cooperatives have a warm human spirit which makes them different from other businesses ... they're made up of people who work together to meet a common need.

"This is especially true of a rural electric co-op like ours," he said. "Our job is providing dependable electric service to our area, and since it's a job that touches on almost every aspect of community life, we are involved with community well-being and progress."

"We want to help our area grow and thrive, because what's good for the countryside helps the cities too. And that's good for the entire nation.

"Our co-op is a natural leader in these efforts," Mr. Freeman continued, "because the people it serves are the co-op. The Bellfalls Electric Cooperative is a lot more than just desks and records; it's people who believe they can accomplish just about anything, working together. And they can, too. Because they really care."

Rep. Kubiak Favors No-Fault Insurance

Automobile insurance rates decreased 55.4 percent in Massachusetts where a no-fault auto insurance plan is in effect, according to Rep. Dan Kubiak.

Discussing auto insurance in his October 1 newsletter, Kubiak reported that the number of claims in the initial six months of 1970 dropped from 66,401 to 31,103, or a 53.2 percent decline.

"We in Texas want to see if no-fault insurance can be enacted into the Texas plan," he said. "Insurance costs must be minimized, and we are doing everything possible to see that these costs are not increased.

In other legislative matters, Kubiak said a bill is being considered which would have the state assuming 100 percent of the cost of education whereas now the state pays 80 percent while the local school district must raise 20 percent through local property taxes.

Kubiak said he had requested that the new Speaker pro-tem be elected from the membership of the Texas House. The election would be conducted by the Secretary of State's office and would be by secret ballot. "It is imperative that this be done in order to restore some confidence in Texas government," he said.

Yoemen To Clash With Bulldogs

By Marilyn Hauk

The Cameron Yoemen battle the McGregor Bulldogs tomorrow night, a team which whipped them 38-8 in last year's game. Game time is 8 p.m., Yoe Field.

Richard Cummings, Yoe quarterback, is still recovering from a broken bone in his left hand.

General condition of the squad this week has been spirited. The workouts have been good and the Yoemen are well prepared for this game.

The McGregor offense plays a single wing and the defense uses a split four with three deep secondary.

In the Connally game Will Turner averaged 7.2 yards in 12 carries. Eighteen carries brought Sam Knight 73 yards, an average of 4.0. Jim Bailey gained 30 yards, an average of 3.0, in 10 carries. William Whiteside gained 61 yards in 14 carries, an average of 4.3. Virgil Jones had an average of 4.0 for 16 yards in 4 carries.

Turner gained 59 yards in passing with five completions out of fourteen attempts. Two were intercepted.

Jackie Chubb gained 36 yards with 3 receptions. Donnie Tucker, with 1 reception, gained 12 yards. Whiteside gained 11 yards with 1 reception.

Chubb showed his value at punting with an average of 37.5 yards in 4 punts.

Aggie's May Ready For Tech Tilt

COLLEGE STATION

Last season May was the team's leading receiver with 26 catches for 479 yards and five touchdowns. His size (6-2, 230) is good for a tight end, and his speed and catching ability are exceptional. And if you ask Aggie coach Gene Stallings who the best leader on the squad is, he'll say: "I always like to talk about seniors when I talk about leadership, but Homer May is as good as any. He just has that knack of getting folks to follow him. Wherever you see a crowd, Homer will likely be in the middle."

Stallings statement also applies to the football field, and is one reason May doesn't have more receptions. It's unusual for a team to put double coverage on a tight end, but somehow there are always two or three defenders around May.

Ask Texas A&M's Homer May what his best game was, and he'll likely say, "The next one." For the junior tight end, that means a very special game Saturday night against Texas Tech in Lubbock.

It's special because its the Southwest Conference opener for the Aggies and also because Lubbock is May's hometown. "I have special feelings about this game because it's the first trip back to Lubbock," says May, who played his high school ball at Monterey High School.

UT's Sisemere Was 'Little Guy'

AUSTIN

A few years back when Jerry Sisemore was in the eighth grade at Plainview, he was a little guy. He weighed about 160 and was about as tall as the other kids.

But a year later, in the ninth grade, he stood 6-4 and was pushing 185 pounds.

Now, as an all-American offensive tackle at The University of Texas, Sisemore stands 6-4 and weight 244 pounds, and is tabbed -- as a junior -- as one of the best Longhorn linemen ever.

"I just sort of grew up over night in the ninth grade," Sisemore recalls.

Growing up in Plain view for Sisemore meant a lot of sand-lot baseball and basketball but, surprisingly, not all that much football.

"Oh, we played pass-touch some, but not as much as you might expect."

Jerry was one of the fortunate ones, always a first stringer.

"I've always been lucky, I guess. I have been an interior lineman since my junior year in high school. I was a linebacker my sophomore year," he says.

Texas coaches have called Sisemore one of the quickest and fastest to play for the Longhorns. His size and strength make him about as complete as a ball player could be.

"I feel as though I've learned a lot over the last year," Sisemore says, adding, "I don't really see any difference in last year's line and this -- I have been pleased with the development this season."

Last year, as a sophomore, Sisemore was the only rookie along a front line loaded with seniors. Now, as a junior, he's the veteran -- joined by redshirt junior Travis Roach at guard and junior Jeff Zapalac at center as the only two-year men around.

Sisemore has already been named to several pre-season all-American teams, and if he keeps developing, he should be a prime professional prospect next season. Right now, however, that's a long way away.

"Oh, I think about it some," he says, "but nobody's talked to me about it. Right now I just want to do my best here."

Yoeman Wins 2nd

The Yoe High School annual, "The Yoeman", won second place at Temple Junior College's second annual workshop for high school journalism students.

Belton won first place, Killeen third, and Waco, honorable mention. Sixteen high schools were represented at the workshop.

Trotlining Said Least Effective

AUSTIN

So you think trotlining is the easiest way to catch a lot of fish?

Not so, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists, who say freshwater trotliners spend more man-hours catching less fish than do fishermen using other methods.

In connection with a recently completed trotline study, biologists found that trotliners could expect to catch between .15 and .17 fish for very hour they fished.

A creel census conducted at eight Texas lakes several years ago showed that for every hour of fishing, casting produced .34 fish; trolling, .52 fish; flyfishing, 1.12 fish; and stillfishing, .74 fish. Trotliners caught only .17 fish per man-hour.

The researchers recently investigated different methods of trotlining on Lake Corpus Christi and came up with some results which may help other trotliners. The 118 fish landed by biologists were caught at an average hook-depth of 4.7 feet in 13.7 feet of water.

The most efficient bait was beef kidney, followed by shrimp, blood bait, sunfish and fisherman's bait soap.

Several baits tried by researchers such as cheese bait, heart, Rio Grande perch and Mexican tetra failed to produce any fish.

Hook size 2/0 accounted for the most fish while 6/0 hooks caught the most by weight.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Attack on Alcoholism

"Alcoholism is one of the most tragic, destructive, and costly illnesses in the Nation today," Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, said recently. "Alcohol or alcohol-related problems directly or indirectly affect the lives of an estimated 36 million persons, or one of every six of our men, women, and children."

The Secretary said this in announcing the establishment of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism within the National Institute of Mental Health, marking the launching of a major national effort to combat this serious and widespread health problem.

The new Institute was authorized by Federal legislation passed unanimously by both houses of the 91st Congress and signed into law by President Nixon December 31, 1970. Principal sponsor of the law was Iowa Senator Harold E. Hughes.

There are an estimated 9,000,000 alcoholics and problem drinkers in the United States today, and about 100,000 new cases of alcoholism develop each year.

More than 25,000 Americans are killed annually in alcohol-related traffic accidents alone.
